ABOUT CLOVER INSTITUTE

History of Clover Institute

Rhondda Stewart has been training in Clinical Hypnotherapy, NLP and Psychotherapy for over 25 years. She was the founder and head trainer of the Australian College of Professional Clinical Hypnotherapy (ACPH) and Australian College of Hypnotherapy (ACH). Rhondda is now offering a professional level of training under the new banner of Clover Institute. Clover Institute offers affordable training and continues to meet the standards of recognition from the Australian Society of Clinical Hypnotherapy (ASCH), the Australian Hypnotherapy Association (AHA) and the International Medical and Dental Association (IMDHA) and other associations worldwide.

The training at Clover Institute is a quality of training that is designed to educate students and build their practical skill base so they are able to set up their own professional therapy practice in the field of Clinical Hypnosis. For those wanting to continue there is an Advanced Diploma of Clinical Hypnotherapy & Psychotherapy which includes Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT) and Cognitive Behavioural Hypnosis (CBH).

The face to face training involves practice in the class room of all aspects of hypnosis, theory is blended throughout the course to build on underpinning knowledge, supervision and mentoring is provided throughout the training. What we know is our students graduate with underpinning knowledge and practical skills that enable them to set up a professional practice in Clinical Hypnotherapy.

Within the training a student learns relevance of duty of care, confidentiality, legal obligations, how to build an understanding of clients desired goal. Through the design of questioning they are able to design a treatment plan for that individual client, and design hypnotic language to suit their specific needs. Work with trance (induction, deepening, therapy work and reorientation) and learn a range of self-help tools to assist the client between sessions building on moving towards their goal.

The training is comprehensive in all areas of hypnosis which equips the student to work with habit, medical areas, trauma, identity, self-esteem and emotional areas such as depression, anxiety, phobia, PTSD. The focus of training is on healing both the mind and body through a Person-Centred approach.

Many schools today only teach a student how to read a script or hypnotic language that is already written in a book whereas we train our students to be able to design their own treatment plan, work with designing hypnotic language and scripts.

At Clover Institute we are continually researching global developments in Hypnotherapy and Psychotherapy training whilst regularly updating our course material to reflect this. Clover Institute works with the most up to date training, reflecting International trends and changes.

Clover Institute knows that no two students are the same, and so our trainers assess student's learning style and supervision requirements based on their demonstrated individual needs. We have discovered that this enables the trainer to offer a more needs-based level of supervision and ongoing mentoring throughout the course.

Clover Institute also offers continuous support after you graduate because we believe that knowing your school is there supporting you after you have completed your initial training with us is just as important as supporting you during the training.

This practical assignment work and your theoretical assignment work will be completed through distance education, with supervision and mentoring. Our training is based on developing practical skills through in class practice and working with real clients.

PART 1 FACE TO FACE TRAINING

Once you attend Part 1 face to face training you will start building underpinning knowledge and practical skills. Part 1 face to face training includes how to design a treatment plan for each therapeutic session that meets each individual client's needs. You will learn how to design a treatment plan with effective hypnotic suggestions to 'weave' into a script based around the client's desired outcome, work with metaphor/story design, and understand trance indicators and how to deal with abreactions.

You will also learn and practice hypnotic induction, how to deepen trance states, design therapy and hypnotic language, storytelling and how-to re-orient the client back to full waking consciousness. You will also learn a range of self-help tools to assist the client in moving into their goal. When working with clients it is important to know how to keep realistic boundaries (therapist/client), work with listening skills and be able to review duty of care and legal obligations with the client.

Practical training in Part 1 face to face will be working with habit and performance such as Stop Smoking, Body Reshaping, Study and Learning and Confidence and Performance areas. After you have completed Part 1 face-to-face training you will complete your assignment work and start seeing clients. Initially for case studies, you can continue to see clients as a student and earn money as you do. Student insurance is something you will need to take out, this will cover you for all your client work and assist you in networking with medical, dental and therapy-based professionals.

Once you have completed your Part 1 face to face the practical work you do will build on your understanding and prepare you to come back for Part 2 face to face which will work the same as Part 1 with case study work and theoretical assignments after the training. Supervision is provided throughout and based on each individual student's needs.

NB: Start working with clients immediately after Part 1 face to face training

PART 2 FACE TO FACE TRAINING

Approximately 4 months later you will attend Part 2, face to face training, which will provide you with more advanced hypnotic techniques, language designs, Meridian energy therapies (including Hypno K and SET techniques). You will continue to learn how to design and create scripts and indirect hypnotic suggestions for a specific client, as well as more advanced Ericksonian hypnosis designs and the use of the Naturalistic approach.
